FOREWORD

Stop! Pause for a moment! Recall the wonderful memories arising from your experiences at Lynden Christian High Reminisce from your first confused days as a freshman to the night you experienced those mixed emotions as you marched down the aisle to the music of "Pomp and Circumstance" As TIME MARCHES ON keep Christ as the center of your life just as He was upheld as the center of your education And as you leaf through the pages of the 1960 Excelsior keep a soft spot in your heart where the MEMORIES portrayed in this book might forever LINGER

Dedication

The Annual Staff finds it indeed fitting to dedicate this 1960 Excelsior to you – Mr. Garris Timmer.

This year has been one of achievement for you – your hopes for our athletic department have been realized. Since this was our first year of state accreditation, your teams were for the first time able to compete with various public schools in our state.

The student body has sincerely appreciated your efforts as their teacher, coach, and advisor. We hope you have enjoyed your years at Lynden Christian High and will continue to receive God's blessings in the future.

Superintendent

Dear Class of '60,

Congratulations to a class whose graduation is so well commemorated by this fine book! Your class distinguishes itself in many ways. You are the largest by nearly a third of any class to graduate from our school. You are the first to graduate from our school with state accreditation. This issue of the Excelsior is the first to follow the pattern of recording the full year of activities, made possible by summer delivery. Your motto summarizes all this and much more when it states, "Time Marches On".

When this book reaches you, you will have a better understanding of your motto than at the time you chose it. Then you looked ahead to graduation as a class. Each one of you was just part of a collective noun, the class of '60. Now you are cut loose from the bundle. For you, time has been marching on swiftly during the last months. Now that you have graduated, I trust you will sense a new kind of independence, and of obligation as well. We hope you are experiencing something of the thrill that comes from testing the educational "gear" that your Christian High School diploma represents. As time marches on, you will find yourself relying more and more on this equipment.

By now, too, you will have a new appreciation for "Memories that Linger". Thank you for these pages of suggestions for recall of the names, faces, and events that will be the memories of your final year at Christian High.

Ever yours in Christ,
Mark Vander Ark

Pete Enfield, Dick Vander Hook, Tunis Bode, Henry Slotemaker, Ed Compaan, Ed Roosma, Garrit Heeringa, Hugo Van Ry, Willis Helder, John Nyland, Ed Terpsma. Missing: Alfred Brink

School Board

Graduating Class of 1960,

The members of the Lynden Christian School Board take this opportunity to congratulate you in your accomplishments of completing this phase of your education.

You are now on the threshold of new horizons. In this fast changing world in which we live we must realize that our education must not cease at the milestone which you have reached. You must further prepare yourselves to take your place not only in the field of education, ministry or on the mission field, but also in the fields of science, medicine, business, as well as in many various occupations.

Then as "Time Marches On" you as graduates of Lynden Christian High will truly be Christians and shining examples in the world for Christ our King. Then too, as "Memories Linger", may they linger on the Christian training you have received at home and in our school.

The School Board,
Ed Compaan, Pres.

Officers: Pete Enfield, treasurer; Henry Slotemaker, secretary, Ed Compaan, president, Ed Roosma, vice president.

The student council of 1959-60 with Mr. J. J. J. Ark as advisor and with the excellent co-operation of the student body has enjoyed working with the students of Lynden Christian High.

The first tasks of student council were to sponsor the mixer and appoint chapel committees. Rev. Reinsma was head of all the chapel committees this year.

Since this was our first year of High School accreditation and our first year of participation in competition with other county schools we made various improvements to the gymnasium. One of the largest projects was increasing the seating capacity of the gym.

We also revised the school constitution. At the end of the year, we had our annual school party, L's were issued for sport activities, and the election of the student body officers for the coming year was held.

We thank the student body and the faculty for their wonderful co-operation throughout the year.

President,
Sherm Polinder

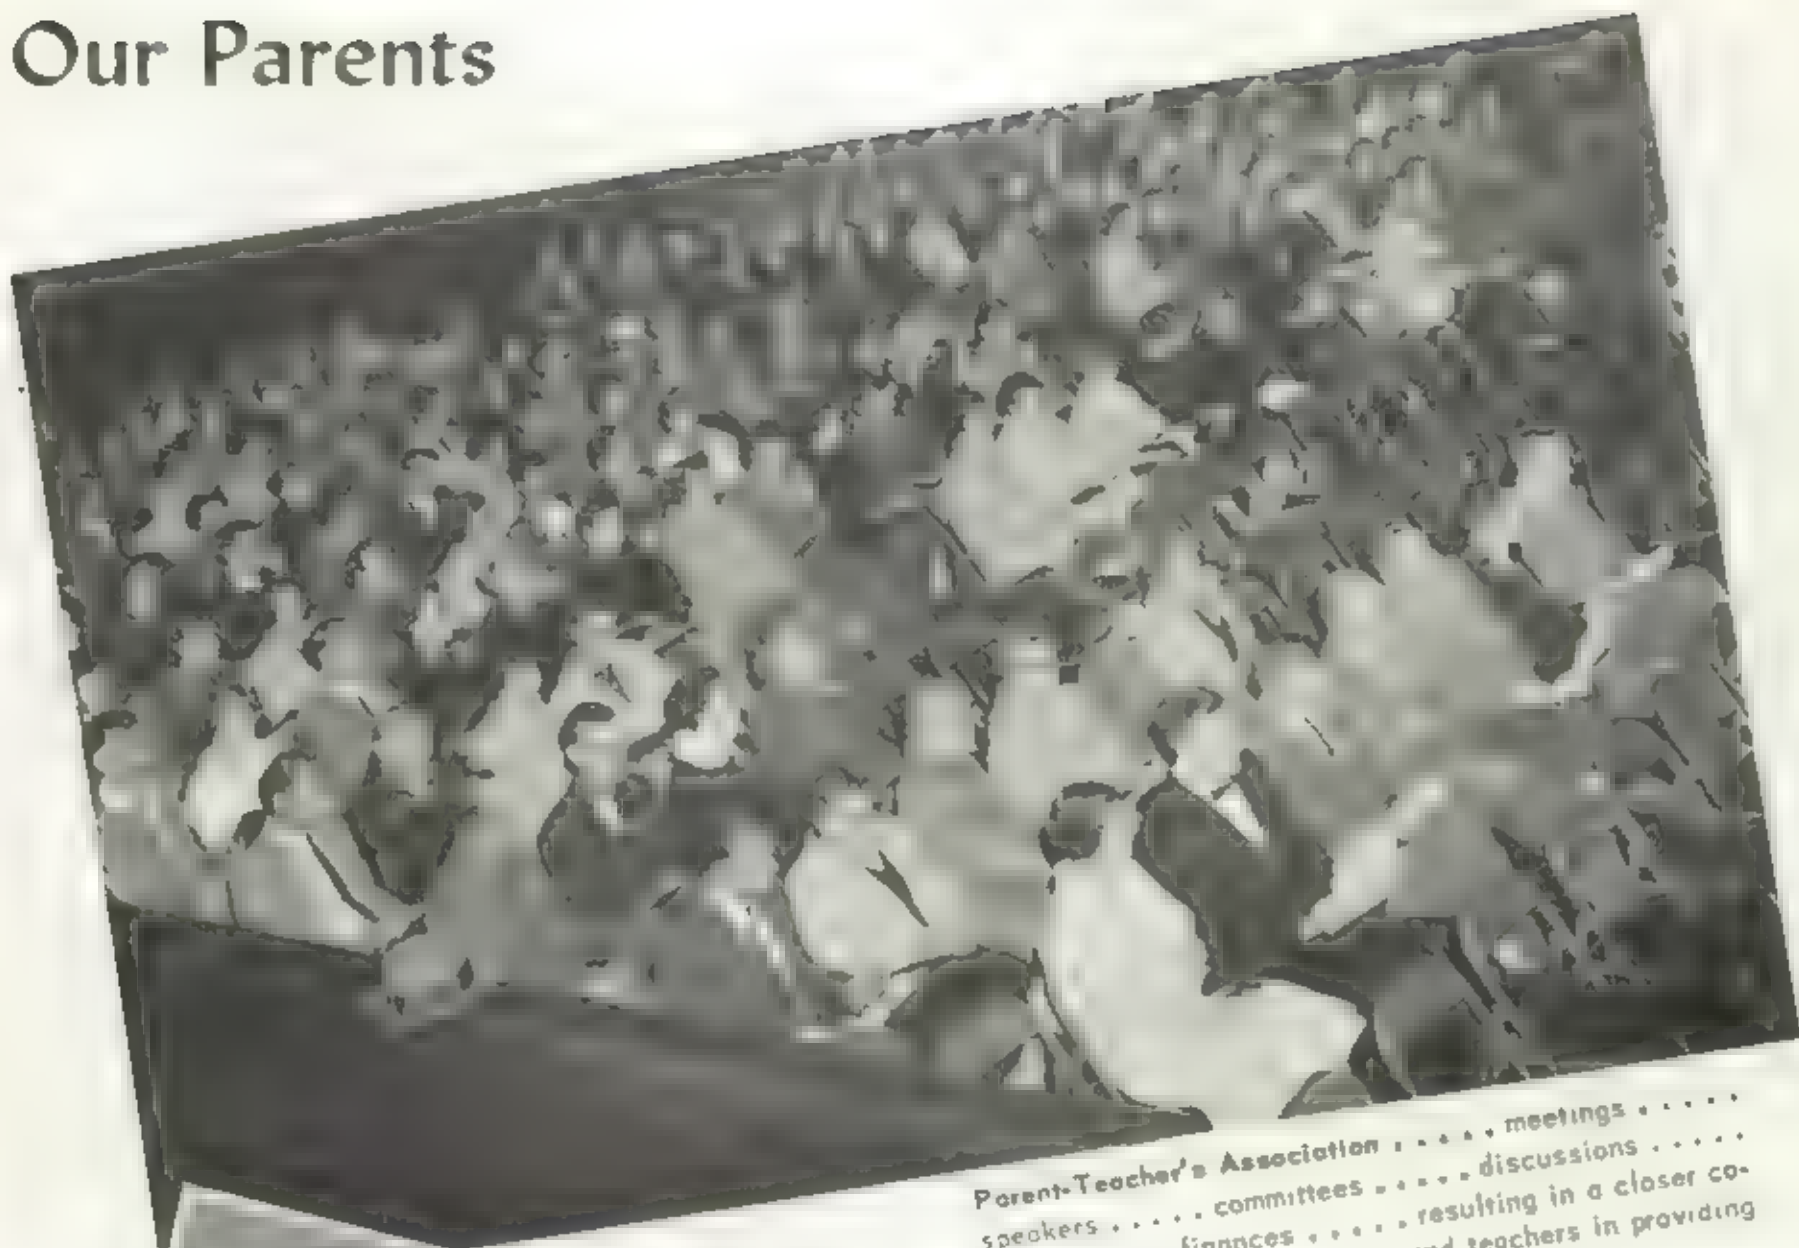

Officers: Jim Wynstra, vice president, Marlin Lenssen, treasurer, Sherm Polinder, president, Gretchen Stremier, secretary.

Student Council

Our Parents

Parent-Teacher's Association meetings speakers committees discussions plans finances resulting in a closer cooperation between our parents and teachers in providing our education.

Expansion. Schoolboard members evidence their satisfaction over the completed addition to the Drayton building.

Open House: Our parents are given an opportunity to check up on our sometimes feeble attempts at "making the grade."

SENIORS

Senior Class Officers

Front Row: Elysis Zoernig, class

For graduating seniors it's the norm
 To write their brief High-school chronology;
 We choose to use for this the sonnet form
 To show our course of sociology.
 The Mixer got us freshmen off the pad,
 Launched à la Fakkema and Timmer;
 As sophs we climbed Mt. Chuck, and we were glad
 Of Mrs. Meenk's restraining glimmer.
 A Treasure Hunt and banquet: junior year,
 When Timmer passed his charges on to Boxum;
 The Senior Masquerade brought many a tear
 Of glee — then Meeter helped to steer as coxswain.
 For all these happy times and friendly ties
 We praise our Lord, who every joy supplies.

ACTIVITIES

Chapel

Chapel . . . a time of song, of prayer and of thoughtful meditation. We, the student body and faculty are grateful for the half-hour of worship we may share each Tuesday and Thursday morning. The chapel committee faithfully makes arrangements for each chapel exercise by selecting a song leader, pianist, special number, scripture reader and speaker. Students as well as faculty members, do their part in leading our chapel services.

We in Lynden Christian High share the conviction: "Christianity is intended to be the guide, the guardian, the companion of all our hours to be the serious occupation of our whole existence." John Jebb.

Take Time to be Holy,
Let Him be thy Guide

STUDENT LIFE

Another year has begun - registration, schedule complications, renewed acquaintances, and the inevitable hunt to the book store

THE GRIND

It isn't long before school is in full swing. The day begins with the routine gab session on the steps before the nine o'clock bell.

From gab to lab in five short minutes - Biology provides some interesting discoveries for budding scientists

A combination of Meeter and Shakespeare in English Literature demands a great amount of concentration from even the most scholarly

The Choir members often conflict with the 'similar' sounds of hammering and sawing in the nearby shop

In P.E. class the girls are dedicated to keeping physically fit and slender which means exercises, exercises, and more exercises

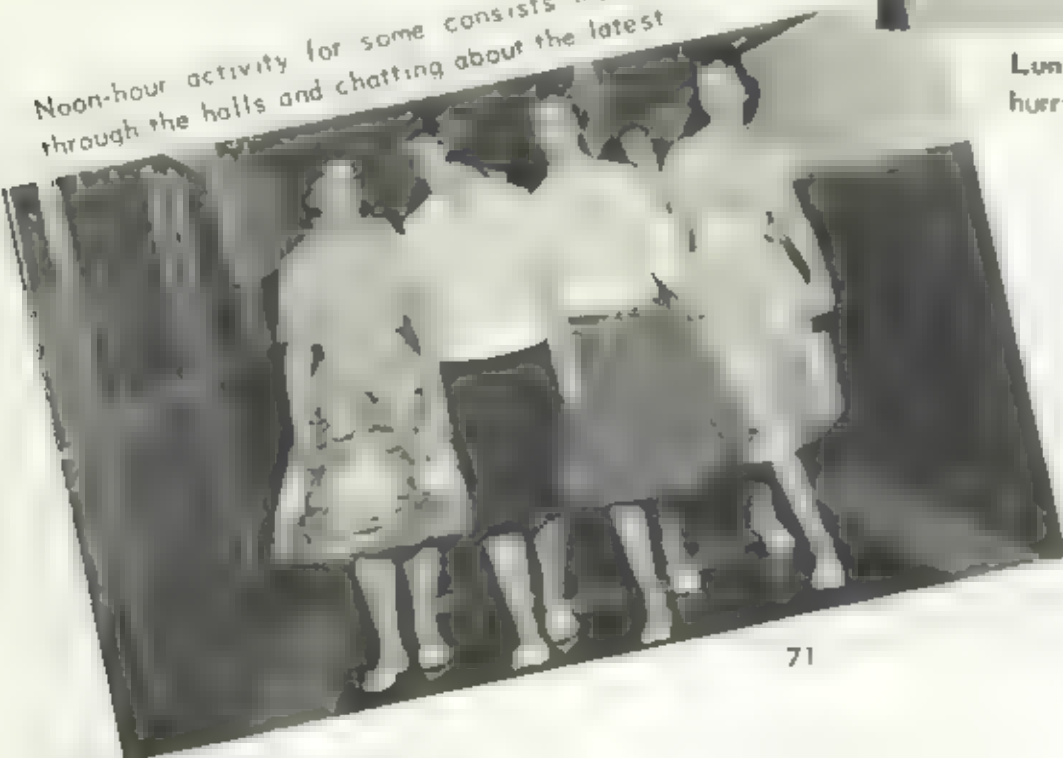

A familiar scene in school life is the traffic jam to the lockers. Here we look down the hall where the mighty Seniors reign.

Lunchtime - everyone's favorite subject. "But hurry up you guys, we've gotta play ball."

Noon-hour activity for some consists mostly of wandering through the halls and chatting about the latest

Back to class for the afternoon session — Home Economics Never were we more discouraged than when we had to take out our zippers for the fourth time!

... and who will ever forget typing class with Miss Zylstra? The trick is to find coordination between the mind and the muscles.

It is with aching fingers and exhausted brains that we will leave U.S. History class after taking many notes and listening to lectures on Kansas.

Six times a day we see the habitua mod rush for class before the tardy
bell rings

After a day filled to the brim with strenuous studies and exciting happenings — you just can't help but sneak a little sleep in class, can you?

MOMENTS TO REMEMBER

Pep Club Banquet

Students and faculty enjoyed the banquet dinner and pleasant entertainment

"Hall of Fame" was the theme for the '60 Pep Club Banquet. Gold basketballs were presented to the team players.

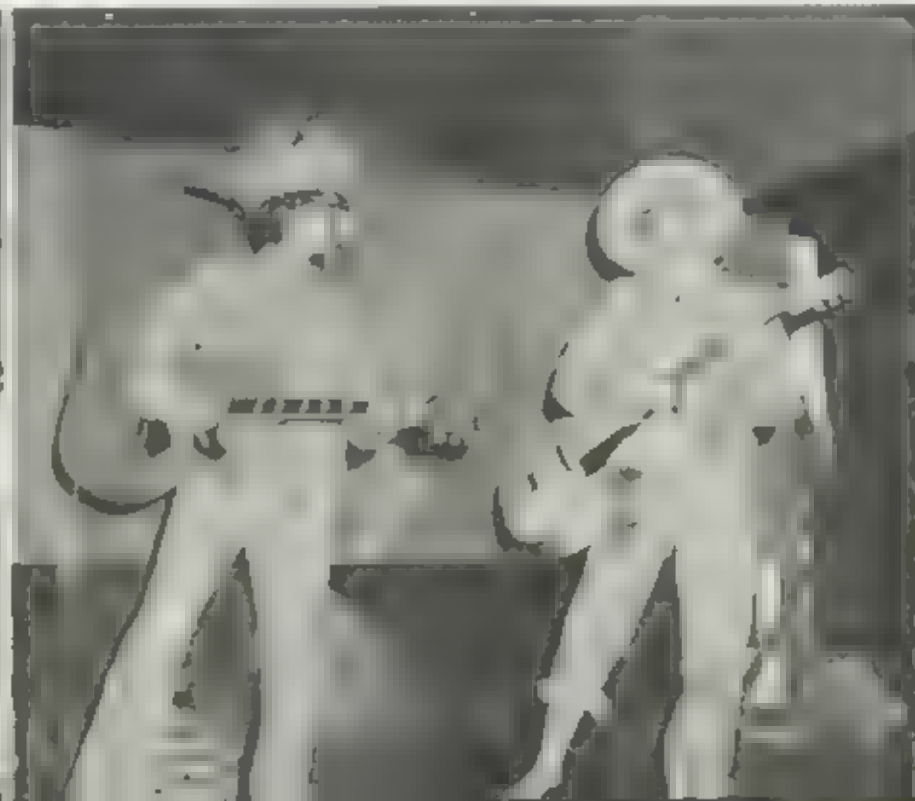

The "Player of the Year Award" was presented to Harold Terpstra

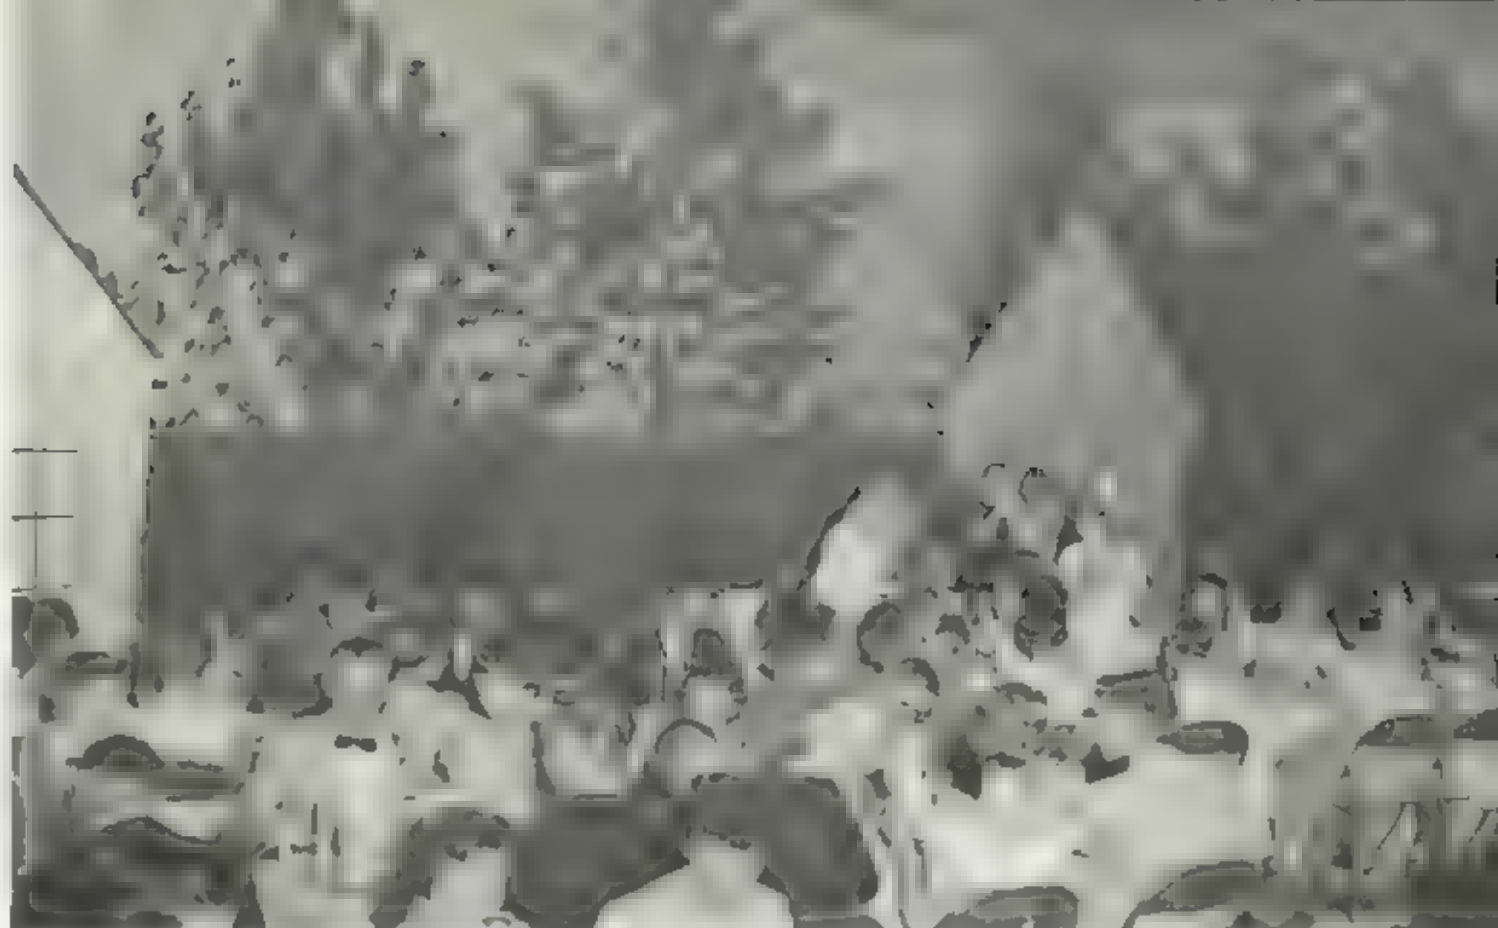

"Then there's that one about the flea and the elephant."

Homer and Jethro (alias Sharon and Judy) gave a rendition of "How Much is that Doggy in the Window."

Mr. Stegink, our capable master of ceremonies, kept the guests in good humor throughout the evening

Jr.-Sr. Banquet 1960

Seniors, Juniors, and Faculty enjoyed the evening against a setting of immaculate Dutch dwellings, spring trees, and an azure sky

Bertha and Harry favored our photographer with a smile before passing through the archway into the festive surroundings.

The theme was displayed on a wall of red streamers and set off by a faithfully turning windmill. "Atja Vaarvel tot Weiderziens - Good-bye, farewell, 'til we meet again."

Into the banquet hall came the servers arrayed in Dutch costumes. The turkey dinner was nothing short of delicious!

One of the special numbers of the evening's entertainment was sung by our teachers' quartet. Beautiful terraces of tulips were displayed in the background.

SENIOR MASQUERADE

MIXER

ANNUAL PARTY

The wiles of maidens' smiles.

Beauty and the beast

Honolulu Lulu

She was a lovely Indian maid

Mr. Hagen crooning "I'm a Little Dutch Boy" at the Mixer.

Jerry provided lots of laughs at the Annual Party with his original "Arly Bugup Suite."

Another Mixer attraction — one of Mr. Meeter's less noble achievements — shoving a peanut across the floor with his proboscis.

"Five minutes late at two cents a minute - one dime please"

Choir Tour

Excited and anxious, the A Capella Choir left early March 16 by school bus to attend the choir festival at Whitworth College in Spokane. Along with the other members of the Northwest Fellowship of Christian Schools, the choir was individually adjudicated, and was very happy to receive an excellent rating. Choir members also participated in the mass choir. On the return trip the choir toured Grand Coulee Dam, and viewed Dry Falls. The choir tour proved to be an inspiration to all and provided a great opportunity to witness for Christ.

Talking, laughing, reading, singing, eating, sleeping, and eating some more occupied our time on the bus.

Weary, worn and baggy-eyed - no wonder - rolling in at midnight and falling out at six!

Nervous frustration was the keynote in preparation for the adjudication.

Skip

May 10 - 4:30 A.M., 70 seniors plus a few faculty members and their wives left Lynden for a day of fun. After traveling 200 miles, we stopped for lunch and recreation at Sol Duc Hot Springs in the Olympic National Park. The highlight of the day, a rather serious one, ~~was~~ when a '53 pickup ran into one of our fellow passengers. After a few flat tires and a not car trouble, we returned home - at midnight? - bedraggled, but happy

Day

No holiday would be complete without the camera fiend.

Cheers! From this cute quintet on the first of their four ferry rides.

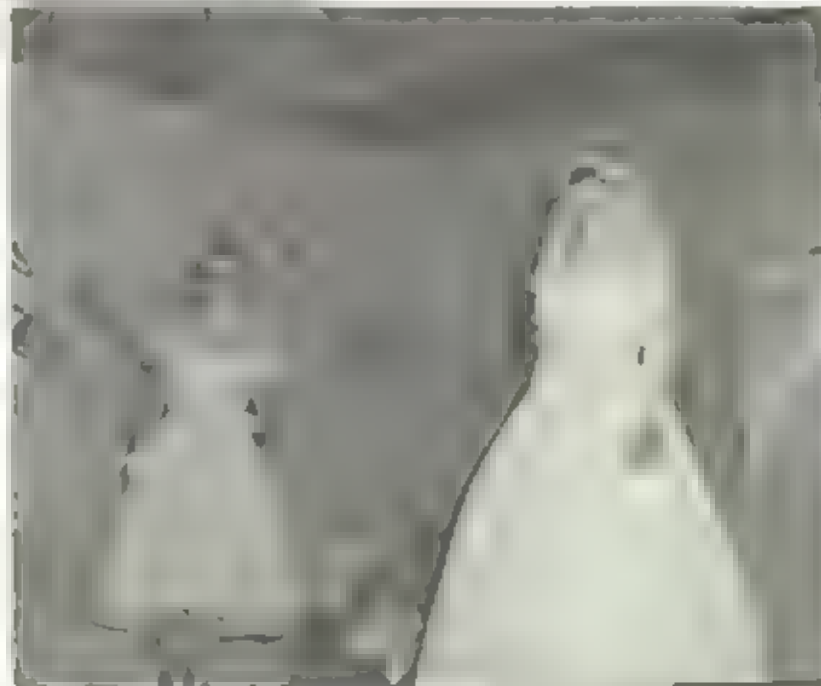

All the impractical Seniors went swimming in the rain. What fun!

Mothers Tea

About 250 mothers attended this year's Mothers' Tea. After being presented with corsages they were entertained by a program and fashion show. This was centered around a slumber party scene and had the theme "You Dreamer, You." Clothing for all occasions was modeled

Every girl dreams about her wedding gown and hopes it will be as beautiful as the one Martina modeled

These girls modeled identical dresses which they made for the first day of spring

Tennis with cute ensembles like these make for a summer of fun

Refreshments, provided by the Mothers' Club, were served after the fashion show

Assemblies

Each class is expected to entertain the student body with an assembly. This year the programs contained films, plays, songs, and short skits. In addition, the awards assembly and the student body elections assembly were held

The Sophomore boys' quartet favored the student body with their elaborate and complicated version of "Pop Goes the Wease"

The "Trumpeter", a play written by Colleen Terpsma, was presented for the student body at the Freshman Assembly. It looks as if the three "socialites" don't appreciate the "Trumpeter's" playing

"I Want to be a Cowboy's Sweetheart."

"This is an educated elephant's front . . . and this is an educated elephant's rear saying: "Vote for Jack."

"Listen ye voters and ye shall hear of the best candidate from far and near — Jim Wynstra!"

The election winners announced, after a trying day of tension, were: Jerry Terpsma, treasurer; Wayne Brink, vice president; Jim Wynstra, president; Cornelia Abrahamse, secretary.

BACCALAUREATE

Rev. Ackerman speaking

The lights were dimmed, the candles flickered, an expectant hush came over the audience. With the opening strains of the organ all eyes turned toward the altar. Slowly and solemnly the Seniors marched to the front of the church. The message they heard urged them "to have a challenging spirit to hold fast to that which is good and to abstain from evil." A few seconds the hour was over, the audience rose, and the graduates ended their Baccalaureate with the recessional.

Jennie lends a helping hand

Graduation

Bob Oordt, class speaker, likened life to the drama.

The big night had finally arrived — Senior Graduation. With reluctant hearts we faced the reality that in a few hours we would no longer be a part of Lynden Christian High. At 8 o'clock, after organized chaos had subsided, we were ready for our commencement exercises. There it was — the familiar Pomp and Circumstances March.

Class history, speeches, class introductions, special numbers, diplomas and awards are to be recalled by these phrases: the play "Life" . . . quality was not sacrificed for quantity . . . set yourself a goal . . . planning to attend college in the fall . . . "Living for Jesus" Congratulations.

Yes, we are graduates. And now as "time marches on", we look back on the many wonderful "memories that linger". With confidence we face the future knowing that our future lies secure in God's hand.

Soon the ushers were confronted with the perplexing problem of not knowing where to seat the overflowing crowd.

The girls found that wearing heels puts them on their toes.

Exhilaration was the feeling of all sixty nine as we took the halting steps of the long processional.

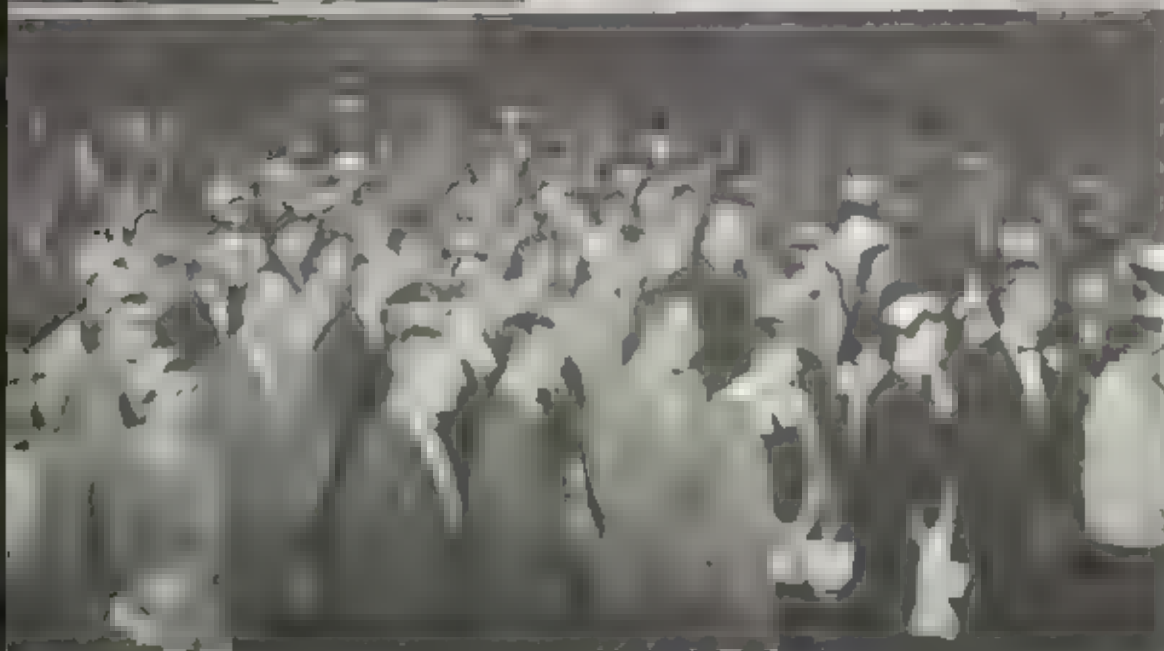

This was the big moment we had anticipated for 12 years.

As we descended these steps, we sensed the start of a commencement of a new period in life.

Graduation

We realized a new importance in the interest of these relatives and friends as we took leave from Christian High.

We gave vent to pent up emotions with handshakes, thank yous, and a few tears.
